

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

While I had initially hoped this Inquiry would begin much sooner than it did, I very quickly came to realize the scope of the pre-inquiry investigative work and the complexity of reviewing, prioritizing, and circulating the evidence as it came to light. As with any inquiry of this sort, especially one with political overtones, many leads were forthcoming, some of which bore fruit; others did not. Nevertheless, in fulfilling my mandate, it was necessary for Commission counsel to thoroughly investigate, assess, cull, and prepare the evidence before presentation at the public portion of the Inquiry. All this work allowed the Inquiry to run smoothly.

Once we got under way, on May 25, 2010, the proceedings moved very efficiently. For that I am deeply grateful to all counsel who appeared. Their civility and professionalism were remarkable. Needless to say, this co-operation made my task much easier.

I am greatly indebted to everyone who assisted in bringing this Report to fruition. Let me immediately say how grateful I am to the Commission's lead counsel, Will McDowell, and his wonderful team: Naomi Loewith, Yashoda Ranganathan, and Ian MacLeod.

I am indebted as well to George Crossman, the Commission's commercial law advisor, and Ava Arbutck, staff lawyer to the Inquiry. Their ongoing advice greatly assisted me throughout.

May I also express my sincere thanks to the Honourable Donald Macdonald, Professor David Mullan, Dean Lorne Sossin, and Dr. Greg Levine. These eminent members of the Ontario legal community gave their time to testify before the Inquiry regarding significant legal issues and legislative background. Their evidence was of great assistance to the Inquiry and especially to the formulation of the recommendations.

The Commission also benefited from the submissions of Peter Downard and Ryder Gilliland concerning the openness and transparency of the proceedings.

I am also most grateful to Mary Ellen Bench, Mississauga's city solicitor, and her colleagues, all of whom were of enormous assistance at the beginning of the Inquiry.

Public inquiries are highly complex proceedings that require a diverse team of dedicated administrators to operate openly and efficiently. The Inquiry staff worked vigorously and diligently each day, and I am very grateful for all their efforts.

I would like to thank Anne Bruzuchalski, Wendy Warnock, Sue Kranz, and Jovana Velimirovic for their thorough command of the courtroom.

In the area of document management, I am similarly grateful to the talented staff at Potter Farrelly & Associates – Kearren Bailey, Elizabeth Miller, and Alexander Parkes – for their invaluable experience with public inquiries and their magnificent contribution to this one.

Many thanks to Peter Rehak, the Inquiry's media relations consultant, who handled a challenging role with poise and grace.

The editorial team of Shipton McDougall Maude have considerable experience with public inquiries. I am grateful to Dan Liebman, Mary McDougall Maude, and Rosemary Shipton for their thoughtful work. Deborah Marshall did a careful job as proofreader.

Laura Brady was responsible for the design and typesetting of the Report, and I thank her for her fine contribution.

I would also like to extend a warm thank you to the staff and students at Lenczner Slaght Royce Smith Griffin LLP for their tremendous assistance to Commission counsel and the Inquiry in general: Bahi Thiyagarajah, Ken Bell, Jason Yetman, and Tracy Fadlalallah (IT staff); Esther Saint Clair, Kimberley Bowyer, Nafilia Malik, and Erin Judges (legal assistants); and Brianne Bovell, Susanne Coles, Tim Hudek, Ryan Liss, Brendan Morrison, Sean O'Donnell, and Andrew Porter (law students).

As well, I wish to thank the members of Rogers Television for their broadcasting coverage of the Inquiry: Jake Dheer, Qaiser Abbas, Gordon Monypenny, and Frank Bosnjak.

The Inquiry would not have been the accessible proceeding that it was without the help of Djordje Sredojevic, who maintained the website and kept it open and running at all times.

The professionals at Froese Forensic were of great assistance in the investigative stage of the Inquiry. For their excellent work, I extend my sincere thanks to Jeffrey Filliter, Ken Froese, Kevin Lo, Ainsley Vaculik, and Brian Verheul.

I am also deeply indebted to my assistant, Inez Conti, who is always a delight to work with and was very dedicated to the work of the Inquiry.

It was a great honour and wonderful challenge to act as Commissioner of this Inquiry, and I am very grateful to have had so many talented and dedicated people to work with.
